Any questions?

Tesla's business model is focused on producing and selling electric vehicles, energy storage systems, and solar products. They also prioritize innovation and vertical integration, owning and controlling their supply chain and distribution channels.

Does Tesla have a strong moat in their sector?

Yes, Tesla has a strong moat in their sector due to their vertical integration, proprietary software, and battery technology. Their software's machine learning and over-the-air updates are difficult for competitors to replicate.
